A fox hunt Friday night was the source of much merriment and excitement to the people of Pickens. The chase began on the north side of town beyond Legare's park. Then the yelping of dogs and the clatter of horses' hoofs, mingled with the cries of their riders, told that the hunters were on the principal street of the town. It was an inspiring sight to see the hunters coming at full speed down Main street under the gas lights, and it was some time before the noise died away in the west side of town, where the hunt terminated. The bold riders, led by Congressman Legare and Marshal Nealey.

J. D. Meaders, of the Easley side, had his well house burned up last week and had hard work to save his dwelling. Built over the well was a long room which was used for various purposes—cannery, storage room for clothes, ironing room, and at the time of the fire was being used in the latter capacity, a kerosene stove being used for heating the irons. The oil ran low in the stove, and when undertaking to fill it the lamp exploded and set fire to the room, and the clothes and winter clothing, which were packed away there, only added fuel to the flames, and they were cut off from a water supply. After heroic work and getting some water out of a stationary engine in the yard they subdued the flames.

Atticus Hagood Dagnall, Esq., of Anderson, was in Pickens last week, looking the political situation in the face. Mr. Dagnall has announced that he will be in the race for solicitor for this district and came up to feel of the pulse of the Pickens people along that line. He is a splendid lawyer and stands well in Anderson and wherever known in the district and would make a good and efficient official if elected.

Elsewhere will be found a letter from Hon. Wyatt Aiken relative to the rural routes in this county, and especially those leading out from Pickens. The patrons of these routes should do all they can to make them sustaining. It is mighty nice to step to your box every day and get your mail—it beats the old way of going to the country postoffice once or twice a week for your mail. These routes are great conveniences and should be sustained. It will not do to go back to the old plan of getting mail.
